

Ms. Majlinda Nesturi is currently Director of Social Statistics at the Institute of Statistics of Albania.

From 2009 to May 2019 she has held various positions at the Institute of Statistics, in the Directorate of Social Statistics, engaged initially as a specialist and then head of the in the Population Statistics Sector where she has given an important contribution to planning and implementation of the Census of Population and Housing 2011.

She possesses an expertise certified by specialized international institutes, in the field of population statistics and social statistics as well as in methodological aspects of the development of the Population and Housing Census.

Ms. Nesturi has contributed as an author or co-author in important studies in the fields of social statistics and is a member of the editorial board of the Scientific Journal RESEARCH and the Informative Journal INFOSTAT.

Ms. Majlinda Nesturi graduated in Economics in 2008 and defended her Masters in European Economic Studies in 2010 at the Faculty of Economics, while attending her PhD studies at Charles University in Prague.